

Notes on contributors / Biobibliographies

---

JACQUES GAGNON est né à Asbestos. Titulaire d'une maîtrise en science politique de l'Université Laval et ancien élève de la London School of Economics and Political Science, il a fait carrière dans l'enseignement collégial. Chercheur autonome, il s'est spécialisé en histoire politique. Il a publié aux presses de quatre universités québécoises (Bishop's, Laval, Sherbrooke et Université du Québec).

STÉPHAN GARNEAU détient un baccalauréat en histoire et un certificat en archivistique de l'Université Laval ainsi qu'un diplôme de 2<sup>e</sup> cycle en archivistique de l'Université Libre de Bruxelles (Belgique). Au niveau professionnel, il agit à titre de professionnel responsable de la bibliothèque au Cégep de Thetford depuis 2010.

JOËLLE GAUVIN-RACINE completed a Master's degree in Anthropology from Université Laval. Her interests include community dynamics, environmental issues, food and farming.

SHIRLEY JOBSON is a social worker in Quebec City at Jeffery Hale Community Services where she works with an English-speaking clientele. She also has worked as a research assistant at the Institut national de santé publique du Québec (INSPQ), where she collaborated in the production of portraits of six English-speaking communities.

MONIQUE NADEAU-SAUMIER, Ph. D., a enseigné l'histoire de l'art à l'Université Bishop's tout en assumant le poste de directrice administrative du Centre de recherche des Cantons-de-l'Est de 1987 à 1995. En juin 2013, l'Université Bishop's lui a décerné un doctorat honorifique pour souligner sa contribution à la diffusion et à la sauvegarde du patrimoine des Cantons-de-l'Est.

FRANCES RAVENBERGEN, PhD, is one of the founding members of COCo (Centre for Community Organizations, www.coco-net.org). At COCo, she works with community groups on organizational development processes and community-based research projects. She also teaches community-related courses at Concordia University.

MARY RICHARDSON has a PhD in Social and Cultural Anthropology from Université Laval and works at the Institut national de santé publique du Québec (INSPQ). Her research interests range from sustainable community development to alternative food movements and rural issues.

JODY ROBINSON, a native of the Eastern Townships, obtained her Bachelor of Arts in History from Bishop's University. She went on to pursue Master's studies in History at the Université de Sherbrooke and graduated in 2012 after completion of her thesis, titled "The loveliest lake in the New Dominion': Montreal villégiateurs on Lake Memphremagog, 1860–1914." Her research examined the architecture of country houses as well as the social aspect of villégiature on Lake Memphremagog. Jody has been the archivist at the Eastern Townships Resource Centre since 2006.

NATHALIE SASSEVILLE has a PhD from the school of social work at Université Laval. She works at the Institut national de santé publique du Québec (INSPQ). Her research interests concern the role of cities and communities to create supportive environments for health.

PAULE SIMARD, PhD, is a geographer currently working as a researcher at the Institut national de santé publique du Québec (INSPQ). Her main research focuses are on methodology (participatory research and evaluation, process evaluation, collaborative research, community-based research) and on community development (empowerment, intersectoral collaboration, public policies, rural setting). She is also director of the Québec WHO Collaborating Center for the development of Healthy Cities and Towns.

SANDRA SJOLLEMA holds a Master's degree in Social Work from McGill University, specializing in community development. She has published widely on the topic of community arts in Montréal.